E-Cell, IIT Bombay

Name: Bathula Chinmai Pavani

Team Role: Market Survey & Strategy (Student Research)

My Motivation

My motivation comes from market research and talking to potential users. Before building a project, we need to know if people actually need it and what existing solutions they currently use.

I enjoy creating survey forms, talking to students and local shop owners, and analyzing their responses. My goal is to make sure our team builds something that solves a real problem people care about.

My Expectations from E-Cell

I expect E-Cell to teach us structured methods for student market research and customer validation.

Through NEC, I want to learn how to ask the right survey questions, analyze market feedback accurately, and help our team focus on features that real users actually want.
